

Leave the No-Call list as is! Consumers are bombarded with enough marketing and advertising every day. Consumers already are exposed to vast amounts of marketing material via direct mail and email. At least one method of consumer communication should be available without the annoyance and influence of marketers and advertisers!